What We Are Learning

Read Aloud : Turk and Runt by Lisa Wheeler

Comprehension: I can make inferences and locate facts in nonfiction text.

Grammar: I can identify adverbs.

Phonics: I can spell words with long o.

Writing: I can write a persuasive story.

Math: I can solve addition problems with 2-digits addends using different strategies.

Social Sciences: I can learn and share important events from my childhood. (*Counting Rope Project)

Tips for Success:

Please continue to practice addition and subtraction basic math facts. Also, work on your child's understanding of fiction text by asking these questions once they have finished reading:

Who are the characters? What is the setting? Is there a problem? What were some important events? What was the resolution to the problem or ending?
